

In a random sample of 100 people, we find that 20 are left-handed.

What can we say about the proportion of the population who are left-handed?